DIONNE "QUINTS" HAVEN'T HAD COLD SINCE THEIR BIRTH

Dr. Dafoe Says They Are All Normal Babies and Bright Children

FOND OF APPLESAUCE

Famed Infants Spend Three Hours Daily in Coaches Out of Doors

(Note: Following is the fourth and concluding article of a series on the Dionne Quintuplets, best known babies in the World.)

CALLANDER, Ont., Mar. 22.—(INS)—Those Dionne quintuplets are "normal babies." They are "bright children" who haven't had a cold since they were born last May 28th—almost ten months ago.

I am told this by the one person who should know—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, the famous county doctor who has been treating and caring for them since birth.

From another authoritative source—chief nurse Louis De Kiriline—I learn the babies "love apple sauce and eggs;" that they have no likes or dislikes and that they "take everything easily."

"They are the easiest babies weaned I ever saw," said Mrs. De Kiriline when interviewed by International News Service at the "Dafoe Hospital" to the Quintuplets—a cheery, cozy little nursery built for the babies three miles into the country from the town of Callander. The hospital is located only 100 yards from the Dionne homestead where the babies were born and where the parents of the quintuplets, Mr. and Mrs. Olivia Dionne, live.

It's great to see the way Dr. Dafoe looks after the "quints." He visits them every day, plays with them and acts toward them like a loving father. He has had his worries about them. But now that they are growing stronger and lovelier day by day he is happy over their condition. They're becoming "big girls" now and are cutting teeth.

The day I visited the hospital with Dr. Dafoe, Yvonne weighed fifteen pounds and 11 ounces and was the heaviest of the five babies. Marie, then weighing thirteen pounds and seven ounces, was the lightest. In between in weights were Annette, Cecile and Emilie, each varying a few ounces but all of them in excellent condition.

Dr. Dafoe attributed their fine condition to the care they have had. He said:

"They have had fresh air three hours a day all winter. Every morning since they were taken into the nursery last September they have been put out on the front porch in their buggies for three hours each morning and that's why they look so rosy-cheeked and healthy."

Six persons can be found at the "hospital" every day. They are Dr. Dafoe, the three nurses—Mrs. De Kiriline, Yvonne Lereaux and "Pat" Mullin—the housekeeper, Laurence Clouston and an orderly named Telephone Demers. The hospital is open to the public for one hour a day—between 2 and 3 p. m. Visitors are allowed to see the babies through glass windows. "Can you tell the babies apart?" I asked Mrs. De Kiriline as I watched Dr. Dafoe chucking the babies under the chin and jolly first one of them and then another.

"Oh, yes," she exclaimed. "Yvonne and Annette are much like. They have certain little mannerisms. Such as the way they wrinkle their noses or make sounds or purse their lips. Cecile has a rounder face than the others and is a little blonder. Emilie has a more pointed face. She has the smallest face and she is very lively. Marie you can't miss—her face is quite different. She is the only one with the Madonna face and her manner is more restrained than the others. They are all quite vivacious. Never have I seen lovelier babies."

Mrs. De Kiriline is a veteran Red

Arrest Croydon Man As A Drunken Driver

CROYDON, Mar. 22.—Joseph Moffett, 35, was arrested as an alleged drunken driver in Philadelphia last night. Moffett's car was identified by James Renton Myers, 9614 Dittman street, Philadelphia, as the machine which struck his car and then drove off.

Myers' car was struck at Frankford avenue and Pennypack street. The second accident was between Moffett's car and that of Joseph C. Januzzio, of Bristol. It was due to this accident that Myers was able to catch up with Moffett, a resident here.

AWARDED $250 AND COSTS IN SUIT FOR $10,000

Plaintiffs Sued to Recover Damages Alleged To Be Due To Water Course Change

TRIAL LASTED 8 DAYS

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 22.—Following a trial that lasted eight full days in the Bucks county civil court before a jury and President Judge Hiram H. Keller, a verdict was returned last night at 8.20 in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $250 and costs in a $10,000 suit brought by Joseph Herman and Theresa Herman, of Durham township, against Harvey K. Riegel, owner of a grist mill in the same township.

The jury took the case at 4.05 Wednesday afternoon and returned the verdict more than four hours later, thus bringing to an end a case that has been in the county courts since 1931.

The plaintiffs sued to recover damages alleged to have been caused by the defendant, who they claim was responsible for changing an old water course, which they contended turned a great deal of their property into swamp land.

In the trial of the case the plaintiffs were represented by former Senator Webster Grim, of Doylestown, while the defendant was represented by Thomas Ryss, Doylestown, and two Easton lawyers.

Trial started Wednesday afternoon in two more cases, both being in the court of Judge Calvin S. Boyer. In one case, Paul M. Carver is the plaintiff and John R. Sharp and William H. Gwinner, son of Sheriff Horace E. Gwinner, are the defendants. In the other case, Gwinner is the plaintiff and Sharp is the defendant.

The suit involves a dispute over the cause of an automobile accident at the intersection of Easton Road and Norwood avenue, west of Willow Grove, on the afternoon of September 29, 1934. Gwinner was driving his car and Carver accompanied him as his guest. Gwinner was traveling on Easton Road and Sharp, who lives in that vicinity, was driving his car on Norwood avenue. Gwinner and Carver were both injured in the collision and Gwinner's car, practically new, was entirely demolished.

Judge Boyer yesterday directed that a voluntary non-suit be declared in the case of Frank B. Bertles, trustee in bankruptcy of N. Buckner & Son et al., against Walton Motor Company and S. Anson Walton. It was an action in assumpsit.

The last case for trial at the present term of civil court got under way shortly before noon yesterday in which Frank B. Bertles, trustee in bankruptcy of the estate of Walter S. Farley and Edith Y. Farley, his wife, bankrupts, are plaintiffs, against A. Conard Myers, defendant. Judge Keller excused the balance of the jurors not engaged, for the balance of the term.

Urge Building of Pt. Pleasant Aqueduct

NEW HOPE, Mar. 22.—At a meeting of the Delaware Valley Protective Association at Phillips' Mill last night the proposed erection of a new aqueduct at Point Pleasant to replace the one which collapsed last September was discussed.

Edward Briggs, of Newtown, president of the association, urged the passage of Senate Bill No. 240, which calls for an appropriation of $35,000 for the new aqueduct. A letter from Governor Earle promising aid in the maintenance of the canal was read.

Others who spoke for the improvement were William S. Taylor, a Lambertville artist; Mrs. James M. Shellenberger, of Doylestown, former secretary of the Garden Clubs of Pennsylvania; Paul Niemeyer, naturalist, of New Hope; Colonel S. Price Wetherill, president of the Tri-State Regional Planning Association; Edward R. Barnsley, Newtown, director of the Bucks County Historical Society; Mayor Thomas B. Stockham, of Morrisville, a member of the Pennsylvania Assembly, and M. J. Coyle, teacher in a Philadelphia high school.

200 HEAR SPEAKERS AT MASS MEETING HERE

Discuss Mobilization of Man-Power To Be Living Force for Good

KEEN INTEREST, SHOWN

Despite the fact that some of the scheduled speakers did not appear on the platform at the Catholic Action mass meeting in St. Mark's hall last night, the 200 or more who attended listened to a group of orators well versed in their subjects and who delivered their messages in clear, terse and concise language.

Press of business at Washington prevented Claire Gerald Fenerty from coming to Bristol, while a conflict in meetings scheduled sent Judge Conner French, of Trenton, N. J., elsewhere to speak.

Talent of an exceptional caliber, however, was hastily mobilized and sent the following group here: James A. Dougherty, Norman Griffin, Esq., Philadelphia; Francis C. Moohan, Trenton, N. J.; Lawrence T. Mullen, district deputy, K. of C., and John R. P. Magill, state deputy of K. of C., as speakers; Joseph Boreca, pianist; Gavin White and Joseph Waugh, soloists. Waugh, a young lad, is a former Bristol boy and he captivated the audience with his renditions.

In addition to the above Percy G. Ford, soloist, and Keith Rosser, pianist, favored with selections.

Dr. George T. Fox was presented as the chairman of the meeting by Warren M. Armstrong and the invocation was given by the Rev. Albert Glass.

It was stated that 14 similar meetings were being held in this area last evening.

Catholic Action it was explained is intended to be a living force for good.

Ratify Pact

By William Parker
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Paris, France, Mar. 22.—Ratifying the Laval-Mussolini Rome Consultative Pact by an overwhelming vote of 555 to 9, the Chamber of Deputies today gave a snappy demonstration of Franco-Italian solidarity against German re-armament.

With nearly every deputy present at the critical meeting, opposition was crushed to a minimum, finding its voice only in the demands of one political leader, for an outright Franco-Italian military alliance in the face of Germany's "declaration of war."

Foreign Minister Pierre Laval, co-author of the Rome Pact, which provides for Franco-Italian consultation over major European problems, especially if the independence of Austria be threatened, was present in the crowded Chamber. Also prepared to speak were Premier Edouard Flandin and War Minister Albert Mourlin.

Tension Increases in Europe

London, England, Mar. 22.—Tension in Europe visibly increased today and meetings of allied representatives tomorrow, in Paris and of Britain and Germany in Berlin on Sunday, will take place to the beat of drums, the marching tread of new recruits and the roar of munition factories running double shifts.

The armament race has entered its first lap at break neck speed. All along the Franco-German frontier fresh reinforcements are moving into that mighty chain of fortification from Switzerland to the North Sea which is the first line of defense.

French boys, whose older brothers served but one year in the army are now kept two years under arms. Italy announces she is keeping her army classes of 1913-1914 under colors to bring the total of the Italian regular forces up to 440,000.

The British are rushing their program to make their air force second to none.

Russia's Red army of a million men lies vast and mysterious in the background with its spokesmen at the Kremlin demanding no compromise with Germany.

Germany is hurrying to complete equipment of its admitted 36 divisions. Evidently confident of its strength, it is giving not one inch in the diplomatic battle.

ARREST WOMAN FOR HAVING ALLEGED MOONSHINE; ALKY

Police Find Mrs. Jennie Riggio In Cellar Filling Bottles

SHE ABSOLVES HUSBAND

Held in $500 Bail for Further Hearing On Monday, April 1st

Bristol police raided a private residence on Beaver street late yesterday afternoon and according to report found a woman in the cellar filling pint whiskey bottles with moonshine. Three pints of moonshine were confiscated as was also a five gallon can filled with alleged alcohol.

In the cellar there were also reported to have been 200 or 300 empty bottles, and a number of empty cans such as are used to contain alcohol.

The woman, Mrs. Jennie Riggio, 926 Beaver street, was arrested and charged with illegal possession. Her husband, Peter, is said to be in the Hahnemann Hospital, Philadelphia, where he has been a patient since Monday. Chief Jones entered the Riggio place through the front door and was closely followed by Officer Nichols. Mrs. Riggio was busily engaged in the cellar filling bottles. A son and a daughter were also in the house.

Mrs. Riggio told Chief Jones that she took all of the blame for having the beverage and that her husband did not know anything about it.

A hearing was held before Justice Guy in the Municipal Building and Mrs. Riggio was held in $500 bail for a further hearing on April 1st.

Mark Council Anniversary; Hear Fed'l Housing Talk

QUAKERTOWN, March 22.—The monthly luncheon meeting of the Bi-County Council (Montgomery-Bucks) of American Legion Auxiliaries, held in St. John's Lutheran Church, yesterday, was presided over by Mrs. George Croner, Yeadon, president of the organization. Many women from points in the two counties were in attendance to enjoy the luncheon, business meeting, and speeches. This was the 12th anniversary of the council.

Among those who addressed the gathering were: Mrs. Barton Opfinger, Allentown, former Eastern vice-president of the state auxiliaries; Mrs. Thomas Meany, Jr., Philadelphia, former department president; Mrs. Jennie Fielding, organizer of the council; Mrs. Rae Brodbeck and Mrs. Betty Wipf, former presidents of the council; the commander of the Quakertown American Legion Post; Horace Palmer, Langhorne, county chairman of Bucks County Better Housing Program; and Mrs. Delight Sweney Trimble, Washington, D. C., special representative and staff speaker of the Federal Housing Administration.

Mrs. Trimble, who has been assigned to Pennsylvania for several weeks, proved a most interesting speaker, telling of the Federal Housing movement. Her discourse included many phases of the work, and she was given an excellent ovation by her listeners yesterday. Mrs. Trimble has had a most unusual business record, and is one of the foremost women architects. Educated in the architectural department of the University of Michigan, she later went to Douglas, Arizona, where she was engaged in the office of a leading architect. Later she was affiliated with A. G. MacGregor, one of the most famous copper smelter engineers in the world, where in obtaining experience in designing copper smelters she was the only woman in the drafting department where 19 men were employed in the same occupation. She is a registered and practicing architect in the state of New Jersey, and when she was first licensed there were but two other women registered in that profession, the other two not engaged in actual practice. Mrs. Trimble has designed more than 300 houses in a wide range of values. She is the author of many articles on architectural subjects, these having appeared in numerous popular magazines.

Another feature of yesterday's meeting was a group of selections by Quakertown Glee Club.

AGAINST PUBLIC INTEREST

House Bill No. 207, providing in effect that utilities shall be prohibited from merchandising, is just another one of those pieces of legislation which from time to time come up for consideration which are fraught with grave possibilities. On the surface the bill may appear to be good, but when it is analyzed it is found to be a detriment to the public at large, because generally speaking a very large group of the public is concerned in the quality and service of gas and electrical appliances. There is no question but that, without utility merchandising, the advantages of home use of gas and electricity would have been but a fraction of what they are today. Appliances have always needed more promotion than dealers, who obtain only a merchant's profit from their sales, could possibly afford to give. As a public service institution it is the utilities obligation to render to its customers the best service possible at the lowest possible cost. The only logical way to reduce this cost is by increasing the use of the service.

The importance of effective appliance merchandising has been recognized by the federal government as an essential part of the TVA program. President Roosevelt has recently stated that the utilities should be encouraged in their merchandising activity. One of the TVA directors states that "without large scale distribution of low cost appliances there will never be widespread use of electricity. Anyone who leaves this factor out of consideration is not thinking the matter through."

The utilities in no way control the appliance market. They maintain merely a stabilizing effect for quality and safety among appliances having some customer acceptance, and do the promotion for the devices not yet having widespread use. As an example locally, this territory being served by the Philadelphia Electric Company, statistics are given showing that this company sells less than 10 per cent. of the volume of electric refrigerators, and about three or four per cent. of the washers and radios. Similar percentages hold for other devices having more or less public acceptance.

Should the utilities drop their merchandising activities, it does not follow that the merchant will receive the appliance business previously done by the utility, or even as much as he has received before. Some years ago the California Edison Company, in co-operation with the dealers, suspended merchandising operations for a certain time in two districts of its territory. The result was that the sales of appliances in both of these districts for that given period fell off exactly the same—70 per cent. The recent experiences in Kansas and Oklahoma proved this same point. During the last year in New York City, with the utility not merchandising, it is said that sales of appliances by the remaining retailers have fallen off alarmingly.

In Pennsylvania, the utilities have established a definite code of appliance selling principles and co-operative campaign methods which have eliminated all unfair practices on the part of utilities.

The inevitable conclusion is that to prohibit utilities from merchandising appliances will be contrary to public interest.

Cross nurse, having seen service with both the Russian and Swedish Red Cross. She came to Canada in 1927 and at the time the quintuplets were born she was in charge of the little Red Cross outpost of Benfield, Ontario.

Dr. Dafoe is quite proud of the babies and also of the little hospital where they are living. It is modern to the nth degree. The hospital was built by the Ontario government and also by contributions from various persons interested in the babies' welfare.

When Dr. Dafoe remarked the babies hadn't had a cold since they were born, I asked him if they had ever been in danger. He replied quickly: "Oh, yes—the first five months they were always in danger. They were premature babies, you know—seven months babies."

Dr. Dafoe praised the Ontario government for the manner in which they came to the aid of the babies and the Dionne family. He recalled how Red Cross nurses were brought in; how the government obtained supplies; constructed the road leading from Callander to the hospital, a dis-work it had done and the accomplishments of the council.

John R. Magill, state deputy of the K. of C., also spoke of the Knights of Columbus and stressed the need and value of Catholic Action.

200 Hear Speakers At Mass Meeting Here

It has two purposes—to interest Catholic men in Catholic Action service through the Knights of Columbus, and to magnify the volume and scope of that service.

In his remarks James A. Dougherty, the first speaker, told the audience "we are here tonight to talk about Catholic Action. From our viewpoint everything you do as a Catholic is Catholic Action. It is a plan to band all men affiliated with the church, so that they will be real and potent parts of the church militant. A man can't be a bad Catholic and a good citizen. We are trying to make this country a better place in which to live."

Francis C. Moohan said: "Mankind is in one of his periodic turmoils. In recent years we have witnessed an increase in government by dictatorship." The speaker dwelt upon the situation in Mexico and also gave a brief resume of the founding of the Knights of Columbus.

"There is nothing mysterious about Catholic Action," he stated. "It is for the advancement and perpetuation of our faith."

"Catholic Action has been much discussed and like most things which are much discussed there is but little known," Norman Griffin, Esq., told those assembled. "We go to church; we mumble through our masses and listen to a sermon which oftentimes is none too good perhaps, and then forget about it."

"We are a chosen people; chosen for a task." Then continuing the speaker brought out that war and rumors of war in Europe did not show "that we love our neighbor." Neither did the privation and starving of people in a land of plenty show that we are living up to the teachings of Christ after these 1900 years.

He queried his audience asking if they were supporting boy scout troops, boys' clubs and whether or not they were having enough dances and social times.

He also touched upon the situation in Mexico telling of the closing of 150 churches and said that the Knights of Columbus had been selected as the vanguard in this mobilization for Catholic Action.

Lawrence T. Mullen, district deputy of the K. of C., complimented the Bristol Council, K. of C., upon the

I'M PROUD TO SELL

ANYTHING THAT HENRY FORD MAKES

WHEN Henry Ford manufactures an automobile, naturally he thinks in terms of the great American public. He has always been guided by a determination to give the purchaser the most for his transportation dollar.

On the other hand, when I sell a Ford V-8 I think in terms of my own town. Each purchaser lives here (as do I!) and has a circle of friends. These friends are interested in his purchase and influenced by his opinion of all-round performance and economy. If he is completely satisfied, it means more customers for me.

Mr. Ford has always created products that give satisfaction. He never lets his public down. And if I give service to my customers that measures up to the car, which is my ideal, I know what the result will be. I know from experience!

I cordially invite you to ride in the Ford V-8. And I pledge you that my service will measure up to the car itself.

Banking Situation Is Subject of Discourse

money of banks has become a duty of great and serious importance which the banker must face and perform.

The institution which I represent, realizing this situation, recently inaugurated a service which is given to banks all over the country—the purpose of which was to indicate to bankers the securities in which they could invest at a profit. This service is, of course, available also to the directors and customers of banks.

Let me urge you to work more closely with your bank. I doubt whether anyone present appreciates, to the full extent, the services which a bank is prepared to render to its customers—do you realize that your bank can give you sound advice as to the investment of your inactive funds? That it can advise you as to the credit of the prospective buyers of your product; that it can advise you as to the distribution of your product; that it can advise you as to the source of supply of your raw material. An alert banker knows the conditions of all types of business which are operating in the community covered by his bank. The local bank often has sources of information of value to you, particularly through its correspondents in the larger centers. This information is available to you for the asking.

Those of you who are in any business which involves the marketing of goods or products may not realize how carefully a bank analyzes your product, your ability to manufacture at a profit, your markets, your personnel, etc., so that it may get a fair idea of the probability of your being able to repay your loan.

During boom times, when almost anybody could make money, many business executives were careless as to their sales policies. Under present conditions, however, a business man should analyze his business from all angles with the same care that a bank does, and this is where the bank can be of real assistance to the business man. Go to your banker, lay before him your plans, ask for his advice, and you will find that he is in a position to help you and will do so gladly.

Do not get the idea that banks are not interested in making loans to small merchants, manufacturers and shopkeepers. Last year the loans of our bank to large corporations increased 10%, whereas loans to small merchants, manufacturers and shopkeepers, increased 39%.

In our bank, we have divided our accounts into over 1200 classifications of large and small business so that we can assist our depositors and out of town correspondents in reaching customers to whom they sell their product. To cite a few instances, we have the accounts of 638 accountants; 358 automobile garages; 305 retail bakers; 264 churches; 1312 manufacturers of women's clothing; 549 building contractors; 225 dairies; 451 dentists; 452 fur dealers; 814 retail grocers; 554 insurance agents; 1914 lawyers; 654 meat dealers; 796 physicians; 357 plumbers; 553 printers; 949 restaurants.

Present conditions also present a fine opportunity for the business man to take stock of his personal affairs. He should consider his financial situation with reference to the future and his family. The Trust Officer of his bank will be very glad to discuss with him such necessary and important matters as Wills, Life Insurance Trusts, etc., and if his business is conducted by a closed corporation or a partnership, it would be well for him to discuss the advisability of a business insurance trust in order to protect himself and his business against confusion and sometimes disaster following the death of a business associate.

Corporations should also give consideration to their financial structure. Possibly a reorganization or a refunding of its securities may be arranged with profit to the corporation. Discuss this matter with your banker. He will be helpful with advice and will arrange for any Trust Services that may be required, such as Depository for securities under reorganization or refunding plans, a Trustee for new bond issues, or a Transfer

Agent and Registrar for new stock issues.

The business man should stop worrying and talking about present conditions. He should bend his energies towards meeting these conditions and surmounting them. The good old days may, or may not, return, no one knows. The business man who is going to succeed is the man who faces facts and in his financial affairs works hand in hand with his banker. Leave such questions as to the stabilization of the currency and the balancing of the budget to those whose job it is to work out these problems. The stabilization of the currency is, after all, an international problem and the balancing of the budget is a governmental problem which we must of necessity leave to those in political power.

Each man must work out his own destiny along the line of his particular vocation. I think you will find that by giving intelligent attention to your affairs, you will receive adequate financial return.

ANNOUNCE SCHEDULE FOR 1936 GRID SEASON

By Jack Orr

Faculty manager Charles Utz of the high school, has announced the 1935 football schedule and it certainly contains many formidable opponents for the Cardinal and Gray. Five new schools constitute next year's gridiron schedule and four of these eleven dropped but a single fray all last fall. Bristol themselves lost only one game in the 1935 football campaign. The complete schedule includes:

Sept. 28—Fallsington, home (pend.)
Oct. 4—Doylestown, home
12—Bryn Athyn Academy, away
18—Cheltenham, away
25—Langhorne, away
Nov. 2—Conshohocken, home
9—Ridley Park, home
16—Burlington, home
22—Quakertown, away
28—Morrisville, away

Spring is just around the corner as shown by the faithful practicing of the track men of Bristol High. Much interest has been shown by the smaller boys, the reason being that Coach Dougherty has decided to run a 100 pound team in the P. I. A. A. Junior High School meet in addition to the regular Junior High School Club.

With the larger institutions in the surrounding vicinity starting their spring football practice the local high school eleven will start their workouts on March 25 and run them through to April 3. The object of these preliminary practices is to give the boys the main ideas of the basic fundamentals so as to eliminate the necessity of doing this next fall.

Tonight the nine men who were chosen to represent Bristol High School in the Middle Atlantic championships will show their stuff. These boys will later travel to different sections of the county and compete in various meets.

The orchid this week goes to Phil Carnvale as the best dressed man on the gym team. Phil seems to be the neatest and flashiest dresser on the club. He even spends half an hour before every exhibition combing his hair so it will be in perfect shape for the evening. Running close to Carnvale in this specialty is Jack Frazer who is another spic and span gentleman.

Tonight the first of the various campaigns planned by the student body in an effort to restore baseball will be staged. A colossal skating party held at the Bristol Recreation Center is the first of the many plans. The entire student body is backing it to the hilt and a great profit is expected to start things rolling right.
